Apr 3, 2020 The serial number is generated automatically at launch. But if you change your computer, or have a new key, you need to contact us . The serial number is unique to your product. So a serial number change can cause problems. . A: I went through a lot of searching through forums before figuring this out, but I'm sure it will help other people that are starting out with Cinema. TL;DR version A) If you run VSE on a Win 10 x64 system with system restore disabled, you will have to use the full batch file. B) If you run vse on a Win 10 x64 system with system restore disabled, but you have manually installed your serial number, and you have the correct path and software file for the serial number you have manually installed, the script will work. Long version There are several steps involved in the installation of the correct version of Cinema 4D R17 and Trapcode Speed Vector, and they must all be done in a specific sequence, or the scripts won't work. A) Using the full batch file To install the correct version of Trapcode and Cinema, you have to: 1) Download the script for the correct version of Cinema from the Trapcode website: 2) Open a Command Prompt window. 3) Open a Command Prompt window in the same folder as your Trapcode folder. 4) Run the file (without the .bat extension) that begins with #!# Windows Scripting Host # 5) Open the Trapcode folder, run "C:\Program Files\Trapcode\vse.exe" 6) In the original script, you will need to add the path to the script for the Trapcode installation to the "SCRIPTS_PATH" variable. You can see how to do that in this thread: How to add path to an IPM script . That's it. If everything went well, you should now be running the VSE script that comes with your Trapcode license. B) Using the script installer The installer script works very well. It will recognize serial numbers 82138339de
