Steam will validate your Steam key and give you a serial number if you have purchased a game. You will need the serial number to create a key for the game. If you don't already have a Steam account, you'll be.Q: Compare 2 datetime columns and get the count I need to compare 2 datetime columns and get the count of event end - start. Example: I have a DataTable object of 3 rows. I need to compare all 3 rows and get the count of the event end (endtime - starttime). Is it possible to do this using C#? A: with LINQ you could do var output = new List<>() { new Dictionary(), new Dictionary(), new Dictionary() }; // Read from tbl foreach(var d in table.AsEnumerable()) { if (d.start.ToString("ddd, MMMM dd") + " " + d.end.ToString("ddd, MMMM dd") == "ddd, MMMM dd") { output.Add(new { key = d.textfield, count = 1}); } else { output.Add(new { key = d.textfield, count = 0}); } } // Write to result foreach(var d in output) { Console.WriteLine("{0}: {1}", d.Key, d.Count); } Test result: The first line lists datetimes in format dd/MM/yy The second line
