Ruler For PC

Ruler - allows to measure distance and area between 2 points on the map Features: This program is a handy tool that will help you measure a distance between any points on a map. The Ruler is as simple as it gets, the first thing you need to do is to mark the start and the end of the line you need to draw. Once this is done, you can click on the start marker and then the end marker to mark the coordinates. You can draw on a map with your mouse. After the drawing is completed, you can see how many pixels you have covered in the unit you chose. It's quite useful to know if the distance you are going to cover is correct. It's also possible to make the map scroll to the left or right. This is a really useful feature that helps you to understand if you are not going to cover the distance you planned for. The ruler is able to produce an output of the length covered as well as the area. It's great to see an accurate figure. Main Features: Display ruler with 2 points on map; Length and Area; Showing distance covered on a map; Ruler can be scrolled to left and right; Each ruler can be used with different units of measurement; Record time; Export the drawing to the clipboard; Export the drawing as a file; Save as a JPEG, PICT, GIF, BMP, or PNG; Set starting and ending points on the map; Easily adjust the interval on which the map is scrolled; Marker can be hidden; Make the ruler bigger and smaller; Display grid on the map; Remove marker; Hide grid; Procedures: 1. Launch the application. 2. Click on 'Set' from the 'Ruler' menu. 3. Select the unit of measurement (m, km, mi, ft, in, nm, km, or nautical miles). 4. Click on 'OK'. 5. Put the starting and ending points on the map. 6. Click on the 'Locate me' option from the context menu. 7. Watch the program work on your computer. User Review This application is super easy to use. You don't need to be a programmer or a user who know the ins and outs of the Windows interface to use it. It's just simple. You

The program can be configured in a number of ways, and it is even possible to use multiple rulers at once. Relatively simple pixel ruler that comes with a few handy features First off, it is worth noting that this application is a fork of an original project by Jeff Key, but with a few additions that make it a lot more useful. For instance, it is possible to have two or more rulers on your desktop at the same time, each with different dimensions and properties. Additionally, you can lock the ruler to avoid resizing it by accident, and you also have the option of setting its exact dimensions via a dialog box. Lightweight tool that has numerous uses You don't need to install anything before running Ruler, as it only comes with a single executable file that can be run from any location. The ruler's opacity can be customized, and it can also be configured to remain on top of all other windows. If you need a vertical ruler, you can rotate it with just a couple of mouse clicks. There are no alternative colors to choose from, and you can only measure objects in pixels, as no other units are supported. Useful pixel ruler for web designers are graphic artists All in all, Ruler is a great tool for any users who needs to measure the dimensions of various objects on their desktop. It can be deployed instantly, allows you to use multiple rulers at once and offers a few other helpful features to make your work easier.
