More specifically, the present invention relates to a processing method for stored records of a database, and to a method and a processing unit for storing information in a database. The Internet is a globally connected network of higher computer systems, and these higher computer systems are interconnected by special telephone lines or cables. These telephone lines or cables are referred to as x2x80x9ccable networksx2x80x9d. It is possible to connect to the Internet by using a dial-up connection, such as the dial-up connection used by a modem-based connection, or by means of a broadband connection that is achieved by means of a cable network. When using a modem-based connection, for example, a local telephone network (local loop) serves to connect the modem to a telephone line that can be connected to the Internet. Thereby, a telephone number can be allocated for providing access to the Internet. Access to the Internet may be provided directly at a local terminal or at a mobile terminal, by using a wireless, e.g. cell based, technology. Networks which use a cable connection may also be referred to as cable networks, x2x80x9ccable networksx2x80x9d or x 570a42141b
