I have spent a whole day trying to fix this problem and with no luck Tried Gdisk and got this error Disk /dev/sdb5 is write-protected, mounting read-only udisks-error-quark, 0:/dev/sdb5: can't get attribute 0x1, aborting A: Make sure disk is unmounted and rerun Gdisk /dev/sdb5. Try it again. The legalese of Theresa May's Brexit deal is a different kind of mess to the words of Boris Johnson's no deal Brexit. It is certainly not written in a way that the public can understand. Whatever one's views on the deal – it is politically toxic – at least it is simple, straightforward and contains no secret compartments or gizmos. Johnson's no deal proposal is very different. It may be that all the government needs to do is try to find out where it is written and take it out. It must be a terrible task because it is evidently a jumbled mess. The much-vaunted “transition period” – during which Britain would remain partly in the European Union's orbit – has morphed into no deal without a transitional agreement and with no clear idea of when it would end. May's pitch to leave and then “make our own arrangements” has been watered down into this transition, which has been extended by months

Top News In August, Apple patented what it called a "profiling-based voice recognition system" that could work with a smartphone's touch screen to help with speech transcription, translation, and processing, according to information on the patent filing provided by the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office. In March, Apple co-founder Steve Wirtz spoke at a technology convention, and the former mayor of Dallas, Ron Kirk, also discussed what he called Apple's "absence of ownership" of Siri. According to an Apple patent application published in early July and filed with the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office, Apple's predicted continual progression toward a world of human-machine interface could become more pertinent when the user is wearing a headset. In one scenario, the user would be pressing keys on a keyboard to control a program or file, while also talking to the program or file, using their voice. A headset would then be used for the other side of the exchange. Apple has filed a lawsuit claiming that Samsung and another company that was recently acquired by Samsung have infringed on the patent used for Siri 3e33713323
