Watch Face: change Switch to Show Time metric to show by the minute instead of the hour

On the Apple Watch, I've got a beautiful face named "Switch" that shows a switch for "Show Time" (see screenshot here). By default it shows the hours and minutes as seen in this example.

But when I change the time interval to 30 minutes (for instance), the label then shows those minutes (for the hour). I would like to change that, so that it shows the minutes in a minute interval, not the hour. Can I achieve that somehow? A: The alternate Apple Watch Face project has a Metric Facial with a Metric and a Minute option. Once you have downloaded it, the options are available in the.wpref.plist file. Here is a screenshot of the options available: Pages Tuesday, July 11, 2013 Sweet, Sexy, Salty, Smokey I decided to order a pizza for dinner, but I didn't care which one. I was in pizza heaven. I love pizza! From this moment on, I'm calling this pizza heaven. This was the 'chocolate kiss' pizza. The red/brown/orange striped cheese was absolutely delicious. The cheese was so smooth. Just the right amount of sweet. I will definitely have to make this pizza again. I decided to have this pizza with an ice cold, refreshing beverage in a plastic cup. This is the lemon-lime soda. It's much lighter, a little less sugary and a little less sour than the traditional lemon-lime soda. It's just a little less sweet. The ice cream went perfectly with the soda and pizza. This was a two-four (2, 3, 4) cheeseburger. This was a cheese burger with spicy chicken. I'm sure everyone who has ever eaten a cheeseburger has tasted this 'burger.' It's rich, cheesy, smothered in melted American cheese and bacon bits and a fried egg. I was expecting a 'burger' that tasted very much like the McDonald's cheeseburger (and they have a delicious one, I will give them that). But the McDonald's cheeseburger is more well-seasoned. This pizza was simple
