Great news, I've just been searching for information about this subject for ages and yours is the best I have come upon so far.

However, what concerning the bottom line? Are you certain in regards to the source? 1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to an alumina powder having high heat resistance and stability in sintering, a sintered body of the same, a heat-resistant substrate for a catalyst carrier having the alumina powder, and a ceramic honeycomb structure for exhaust gas purification and purification of exhaust gas components. 2. Description of the Related Art An alumina honeycomb structure has been proposed as a catalyst carrier. The alumina honeycomb structure is manufactured by extruding alumina powder or the like and sintering the extruded body by firing. The alumina honeycomb structure has high durability and can maintain high activities for a long period of time. Due to such an excellent durability, the alumina honeycomb structure has been widely used for a catalyst carrier of an exhaust gas purification catalyst. The conventional alumina honeycomb structure has a problem in that a so-called decrease in strength (inverse peak strength) is caused when the alumina honeycomb structure is sintered by firing. This occurs because the sintering temperature is in a high temperature range and becomes higher as compared with conventional values. Such a decrease in strength becomes a problem especially in a region where an exhaust gas purification catalyst is disposed. There is a method of decreasing the sintering temperature by increasing the particle diameter of alumina. However, when the particle diameter of the alumina is increased, sufficient durability cannot be obtained. Therefore, an alumina honeycomb structure having excellent heat resistance and a method for manufacturing the same have been demanded. Transitioning out of ICU: practical issues and issues to consider. In July 2007, The Society of Critical Care Medicine (SCCM) published a policy statement regarding the care of children in intensive care. The issues addressed include withdrawal of care from children, transfer of care, and transition of care. This document is intended to describe those issues and the care provided in pediatric intensive care. This document is written for clinicians treating critically ill
