According to reports, the crew wears street clothes in order to be able to go unnoticed. Do you think this is a gimmick or is this a way to show the kinds of things that they are really experiencing? I keep hearing rumors that the production might even use 3D in some way. Would you be okay with this? What do you think they're up to? More Interesting Articles Superman, Sherlock Holmes, Batman – anyone else notice that there's a lot of male actors that can play all of these characters? Sure, there's a few female actors that play characters like Wonder Woman or The Joker, but the list of actresses that could actually play Superman or Sherlock Holmes is shorter than the list of male actors that could do those roles.Sound-based navigation in free-ranging and captive northern raccoons (Procyon lotor). Raccoons are able to use low-frequency (~250 Hz) sound to find and navigate between prey and resource patches. Although there is extensive evidence of navigation for these animals, little is known about how low-frequency information is integrated with high-frequency information. In this study, we characterized the auditory system of raccoons during a sound-based navigation task. We then examined how low-frequency information was used to integrate across single and multiple environments. Intact animals used fixed frequencies to find known food patches at varying distances and orientations while in a novel environment, but navigated by 1cb139a0ed
